Dear Parents

Sixth Form Literary Dinner – Wednesday 15 October 2014

The third annual Literary Dinner will take place at St Helen's this year and is open to all boys studying English A level, Theatre Studies A level, or those who regularly attend our Literary Society.

We are extremely lucky to have as our guest speaker Jez Butterworth, the acclaimed playwright and writer of screenplays. He is perhaps best known for his multi-award winning play Jerusalem, but more recently has worked on screenplays for Steven Spielberg, amongst others. This is a truly fantastic opportunity for the boys to hear such an acclaimed speaker and writer, quite apart from the chance to socialise with fellow pupils from Abingdon and St Helen's.

The evening starts at 6.45pm in the atrium at St Helen's and will involve pre-talk drinks, a two-course buffet with a glass of wine (if parental consent is given) and a literary quiz. The evening should end by 10pm and I would appreciate it if you could confirm that you are happy for them to make their own way home or be collected from St Helen's School at that time.

The cost for this is £15.00 which can be added to the end of term bill.

Please could you return the permission slip below to me at school.

Do let me know if you have any questions at all.

Yours sincerely
